

Controversies in Dermatopathology: Nevi, melanoma and simulators

Pordenone, September 28th - 29th, 2012

The Department of Pathology at Pordenone General Hospital organizes a two-day meeting on controversial topics and new insights on melanocytic lesions of the skin and their simulators.

The teaching program includes lectures and slide seminars emphasizing diagnostic criteria based on conventional histology, with references to the appropriate ancillary diagnostic techniques. The course program has been specifically outlined for practicing pathologists, dermatologists and plastic surgeons.
